Interest rate in the event of non-agreement

Time limit applying to the interest margin over the reference interest rate

If at the end of the time limit applying to the interest margin over the reference rate an agreement is not reached on a new interest margin, then according to the terms of the contract, a variable non-agreed interest will come into force. This variable non-agreed interest will be as follows:

Adjustments in the variable non-agreed interest rate will depend on changes in the following reference interest rate: 3-month EURIBOR.

The bank will check the reference interest rate on a regular basis two business days before the beginning of each next calendar month. If at this point in time, the reference rate has changed in relation to the figure under consideration, then the variable borrowing rate will automatically rise or fall by as many percentage points with effect from the first day of the following calendar month.

The reference rate applicable at any time can be checked at the bank's business premises or at the Deutsche Bundesbank:
