Adjustments in the variable non-agreed interest rate will depend on changes in the following reference interest rate: 3-month EURIBOR. The bank will check the reference interest rate on a regular basis two business days before the beginning of each next calendar month. If at this point in time, the reference rate has changed in relation to the figure under consideration, then the variable borrowing rate will automatically rise or fall by as many percentage points with effect from the first day of the following calendar month.

The reference rate applicable at any time can be checked at the bank's business premises or also on the Internet under
